

We, at the Glenner Centers, are pleased to screen Jermey Ashley Pair's award-winning short film "Golden Age". There will be 2 screenings with a Q & A to follow with the Director.

About the Film

The film "Golden Age" is about a jaded teenager, Norma, who begrudgingly visits her grandmother, a former B-list actress with dementia, who is facing eviction from a retirement home due to her financial hardship. While watching the film "Morocco," a Casablanca-esque film from the 1940s in which her grandmother starred, the two are magically transported inside the movie where they must escape the Nazis and stop World War II - all with the help of a wise-cracking, Humphrey Bogart-like romantic. Along the way, Norma bonds with her grandmother as she seeks happiness and a way to remember again.
